

I took up writing poetry on my retirement. In the last year I have had already published or soon to be published around 70 poems. Therefore, as the response was good, I decided to publish my own book. Being a romantic many of the poems I write have a strong slant to interest the fair sex. I list a few poems as follows: A Beautiful Woman, Mum, why did you marry Dad? How Mary got her Man, My First Passion, Marriage the old-fashioned way, She Pulls the Strings and The Boy Next Door. On the serious side, I have written The Day the Earth Trembled which relates to the Boxing Day tsunami, which has been sent to many of the charities involved, in case they wish to use it for fund raising. The Dance of Life has been well received. A Baby is Dying has produced tears when reading to my audience. The Telegram has been accepted by the British Legion for their publication. Dis last Goodbye always catches attention. I enjoy writing poetry and I enjoy jokes and humour, so I have combined to put them into verse. Stars in your Eyes involves Sherlock Holmes. Surprise, Surprise catches the sexy old man out. Look at my Forehead - very funny. A Clean Sweep, Im in the Pink and Three for the Price of Two have been successful. Mother Nature is well covered in this collection. Our Garden of England, Autumn, Stop and Stare, The Wind - Friend or Foe, The Flying Vee and Spring is nearly Here. This book is written for ordinary folk to read and enjoy. It is easy to read with plenty of variation and you never know what is coming over the next page.
